THE SHRI RAM UNIVERSAL SCHOOL BRINGS GLOBAL BEST PRACTICES FROM USA TO PALAVA

The pandemic and the ensuing lockdown in 2020-21 saw a massive change in the way education was imparted in schools.

Though a lot has been said about the 'learning loss', 'curricular setback', 'academic gap' and more during the last year; after endless hours of training, mentoring, facilitation, workshops and webinars, have transpired; they can emphatically state that meaningful and effective learning has happened and is still happening ex situ.

Schools and teachers, as always, made their magic happen and ensured that students are engaged.

The internet literally opened the doors of the classroom to the whole wide world out there.

The Shri Ram Universal School has been fortunate to be included in pioneering collaborative work under the aegis of organisations such as Clear Public Spaces, UK and their students are now connected to classrooms across the world such as William Fletcher Primary School, UK and are discussing ecological issues.

Through their collaborations with The Center for Interactive Learning and Collaboration, (CILC) USA, they experienced the mighty Redwood Trees in California, appreciated the biodiversity in the tidepools at Crystal Cove, California and marvelled at the natural wonders of The Yellowstone Park, The Joshua Tree National Park, Wyoming Museum and Rocky Mountain National Park. Live interactions with well-informed guides and resource persons have made learning impactful.

Meaningful deep discussions with Art curators and experts at The Smithsonian American Art Museum and participation in a global Climate Action Project also ensued

As the famous philosopher John Dewey says, “If we teach today as we taught yesterday, we rob our children of tomorrow.”
